Stipends for Attendance and Participation

Attendees will receive a $225 stipend. Stipends will be offered to the first 50 registrants on a first-come first served basis. This offer is limited to two (2) members per campus/organization. Stipend checks will be mailed via USPS following the conclusion of the completed session.

Who should attend?

Teacher education and preparation program stakeholders who are committed to developing a strong community of practice among community college teacher education professionals in maintaining relevant and comprehensive lower division teacher preparation academic and student support programs across California.

Why Attend?

We want to hear from you—students, faculty, advisors, administrators, and partners who are shaping the next generation of educators. Your voice is critical as we explore how California’s community colleges can play a stronger, more inclusive role in preparing future teachers—especially those from racially, ethnically, and linguistically diverse backgrounds.

What to Expect:

- ✓ A space to share your experience, challenges, and ideas
  - ✓ Meaningful discussion with colleagues across the education ecosystem
  - ✓ A chance to directly shape a statewide strategic framework and future investments in teacher preparation

Key Questions We'll Explore Together:

- What’s working—and what’s not—for future teachers starting at community colleges?
  - What barriers are getting in the way?
  - How can we build stronger, more equitable pathways into the teaching profession?
